Alpha Kappa Alpha is the oldest Greek-letter organization established in America by and for Black women. The record of its origin, growth and development, activities, evolving goals and accomplishments is more than an interesting chronicle of a colorful bit of college-based Americana. It is, rather, a significant and inspiring reflection of the development of a minority group in a changing culture. The sorority began as an instrument for enriching the social and intellectual aspects of college life by providing mental stimulation through interaction with friends and associates.

Through the years, however, Alpha Kappa Alpha's functioning has become more complex. After the incorporation as a perpetual body in 1913, Alpha Kappa Alpha gradually branched out and became the channel through which selected college-trained women improved the social and economic conditions in their city, state, nation and world.

Today, that tradition has continued internationally, nationally and locally. Alpha Kappa Alpha cultivates and encourages high scholastic and ethical standards, promotes unity and friendship among college women, alleviates problems concerning girls and women, maintains a progressive interest in college life and serves all mankind through the nucleus of more than 140,000 women in over 860 chapters.

Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., the first Intercollegiate Greek-letter fraternity es tablished for Black college men, was organized at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York, on December 4, 1906. The founders of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, Inc., are Henry Arthir Callis, M.D., Charles Henry Chapman, Eugene Kinkle Jones, George Biddle Kelly, Nathaniel Allison Murray, Robert Harold Ogle and Vertner Woodson Tandy. Despite their difficulties of organization in this untried field of student life, the early fraternity pioneers succeeded in laying a firm foundation and remained steadfast in their goals--espousing the principles of good character, sound scholarship, fellowship and the uplifting of humanity, especially the struggling Black minority in America.

ΣAE

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was founded in March, 1865, and has grown to become the largest fraternity in the world. The brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon are involved throughout the campus in Student Senate, Judicial Council, University Senate, DCGA and many other campus organizations. The brothers of SAE also participate in every varsity sport, as well as club and intramural teams.

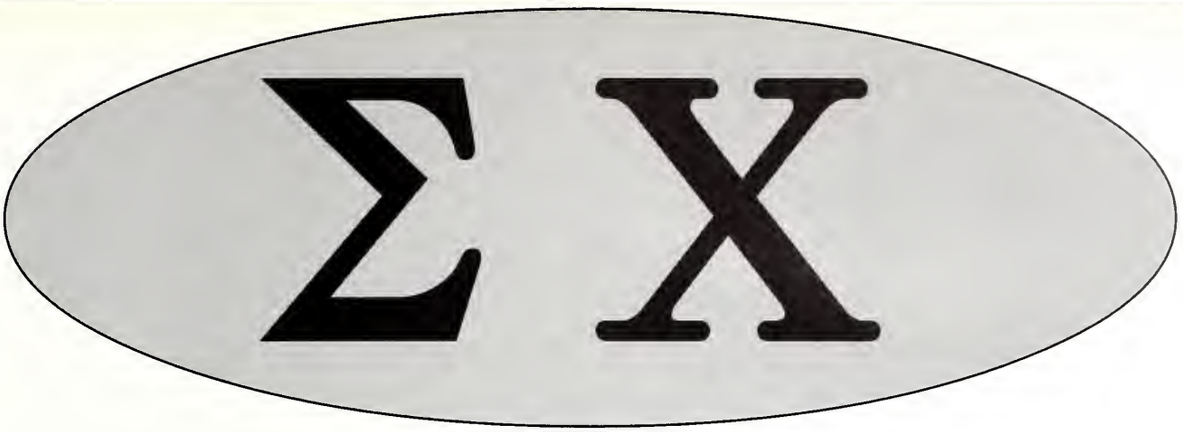

The social program should play a vital role in any Greek system. The brothers of SAE enjoy an extensive social calendar all year. Our parties include theme parties, rush functions, and brother-only events. Tradition plays a vital part of the Ohio Mu chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, as seen in our annual parties such as Heaven and Hell, The Blue Party, and the infamous Paddy Murphy Senior Party.

Tradition is a very important aspect of Sigma Chi. Where other fraternities have broken from past practices such as traditional songs and serenades, these have continued on at Sigma Chi.

The Adytum Constitution

I. Adytum, a place where mysteries and secret things are kept.

II. The organization is dedicated to serving the Denison community primarily through the production and publication of a yearbook. The contents of the book vary from year to year; however, major annual sections include seniors, Greeks, faculty, sports, fine arts, residence halls and organizations/activities. The Adytum has been a Denison organization since 1881, and in 1998-99 will produce Volume CVI.

III. The head of the organization is the Editor-in-Chief (more commonly referred to simply as the Editor). The Editor will have at least one year's experience on the Adytum staff and will be appointed by the previous Editor pending the approval of the general staff. Other staff members are as follows:

- Layout Editor
- Photography Editor
- Assistant-to-the-Editor
- Photographers
- General Staff (layout)

The positions of Layout Editor, Photography Editor and Assistant-to-the-Editor will be selected by the Editor-in-Chief based on past yearbook experience. The Editor-in-Chief is selected in April and takes office in May. This is due to the fact that typically the Editor is a graduating senior and proofs will need to be corrected during the summer following graduation. The Editor may select people for the three aforementioned positions immediately in May or in September, when the new staff is finalized.

ON THE MIND

ALARM

may cause lung cancer heart hysema, and complicate pregnancy

By Madeline Hart

Ah yes, freshman year: all the classes are exciting, and the buildings are intimidating and covered from floor to ceiling with informative posters. It's a warm autumn afternoon. You're finished with classes for the day and stroll up to Slayter to check your mail. Yes! You've received a package! As you wait in the tiresome line anxious to receive your goodies, your eyes are pulled in the direction of a wall covered with pamphlets. As you look closer, you see pamphlets on drug abuse, alcohol, pregnancy, safe sex. Name the abuse, it's on that wall. But wait: Where are the pamphlets on smoking? You are wondering this because you are one of the hundreds of smokers on Denison's campus and, at this very moment, are nic-fitting. You think to yourself " Where is the information about the detriment of smoking, where on this wall does it tell me not to go smoke this cigarette after I pick up my package, because I am taking off another seven minutes of my life?" After you claim your package, you pass by that wall on your way outside to light up. Chances are if pegged to the wall was a health brochure advertising nonsmoking, you may be on your way to town to pick up some Nicoderm-CQ instead.

Fair reader, you may be thinking at this point: "Hey, I've stood in that line, I've read that wall. It's true, there aren't any brochures on smoking. I'm not a cocaine addicted; I haven't smoked weed since ninth grade; I drink, well, say moderately, like most Denisonians; and I'm not pregnant (I know how to use condoms); but I smoke a pack and a half of Marlboro Reds everyday."

You are certainly not alone in your addiction: "27% of Americans smoke; 80% of those Americans start smoking before the age of 21." As most high school graduates know, smoking can cause health problems such as: lung cancer, mouth cancer, Emphysema, high-blood pressure, etc. The list goes on and on. The bottom line: if you smoke, you're gonna die! So where on Denison campus are the " nonsmoking", "smoking kills," " This is what your lungs will look like if you keep smoking,""" Hi, I'm John, I breath, talk, sing and smoke through a hole in my neck because I have smoking related cancer" posters so frequently seen in high-school? Why is Denison blind to the fact it has a very prominent smoking problem?

Helpful Hints

The "dot" – is called the "bindi" in Hindi. Women in India adorn it for no more a spectacular reason than Gwen Stefani of No Doubt. It's just makeup and always has been too.

The "fakir" – is the "fake" (the similarity in the Hindi and English terms is purely coincidental) Supposedly, a "Hindu miracle worker," he is nothing more than a showman. An Indian David Copperfield, fakirs can pretty much achieve the same thing—using the same techniques.

The "yogi" – the "real" fakir. He is proficient in the art of yoga and has, by way of constant disciplined meditation, achieved a high level of spiritual insight. His powers of concentration are much higher than the average human, and through this concentration, he performs feats such as fire-walking, levitation and week long fasts from food and water.

The "Vedas" – came around 3500 BC. They are religious texts. There are four of them:

The Rig Veda – the oldest. Contains hymns (called mantras in Hindi)

The Sama Veda – contains hymns to be sung only by a special class of priests

The Yajur Veda – contains hymns to be sung only at special rituals ("yagnas")

The Atharva Veda – the real reason why you have been reading the bit on Vedas so far. It has mantras on Gnana(knowledge), Karma(deeds), and Upasana(invocation). Some mantras are meant to ward off wicked spirits responsible for evil and suffering. Very few people can still read it. If the Atharva Veda is taught, the students have to make various pledges and solemnly swear that they will not reveal their knowledge to anyone.

Peer Advisory Network

The Peer Advisory Network (PAN) is a student activiy that promotes campus community wellbeing. A big project for the group was in February 1999. They set up a Thank Tank in Slayter. The Thank Tank encouraged everyone to write notes to thank people for kindnesses. Students thanked other students, professors and staff on campus.

Choosing Mums

The trees are dying.
Not the fall to winter settling of leaves,
but a harried death in the grip of insect webs,
branches bare before the waning of the harvest moon.

From mums,
like a patch of fire on dry grass,
I choose the yellow eyed to crown my daughter's hair, brush from her shoulder
silver strands between her and the dying flowers.

She sees and tells me their centers are like questions, a quick breath or tears in an empty bedroom.

As the sun sets tonight,
in the moonlight through bare branches,
I will dry the flowers my child has worn to be saved against the disappearance of the trees.

¿Cómo define la belleza?

¿Cómo define la belleza?
¿Qué calidades tiene ella?
¿Por qué es la vida tan fea
y cada flor siempre bella?

Yo no hablo de la hermosura
—que mal suena la palabra—
ni de la beldad tampoco
—ésta claro falta el alma.

Pero belleza es más alta;
es loco que la defina.
Sus letras perfectas, bellas;
belleza, eres más divina que...

Amnesty

Amnesty International is a worldwide human rights movement working independently of all governament and political ideologies to secure the release of prisoners of conscience (men, women, and children detained anywhere solely because of their beliefs, ethnic origin, gender, sexual orientation, color, or language and who have neither used nor advocated violence.)

Amnesty International tries to ensure fair and prompt trials for all political prisoners and end all use of torture, "disappearance," political killing, and the death penalty.

Amnesty International has over 1.1 million members in 192 countries and territories, including nearly 300,000 members here in the United States. Members of 1,500 Student Goups all over the country meet regularly to write letters and organize action on behalf of prisoners of conscience and other victims of human rights violations, and to educate their campus communities on human rights issues. Amnesty International at Denison Universtiy is open to anyone with a concern for human rights and a desire to act on that concern.

Denison Community Association

DCA is the largest student-run organization at Denison University, Its five-hundred plus members gave over ten thousand hours in community service in 1997-98. The heart of DCA is its members, who are part of committees involved in mentoring and tutoring children, working with the sick, the elderly, victims of violence; dealing with homelessness, hunger, animal rights and much, much more. Each service committee is chaired by students chosen for their leadeship ability and experience. A committee chair partners with a community organization to provide volunteers with a service site, orientation and training. The entire organization is overseen by the DCA cabinet, composed of the president and six vice-presidents, elected annually by the chairs, Cabinet officers oversee funds, plan special projects, screen new service oppurtunities, and support chairs in their work. The cabinet works closely with the coordinator and advisor to develop vision and policy.

DCA membership is open to all faculty, staff and students. DCA encourages its members to develop a sense of citizenship toward the communities in which it serves.

Caring, committed, open to learning from and serving others.

No experience s required, just n open mind, a willingness to get involved, and a commitment of time and oneself.

Women's Emphasis

Women's Emphasis consists of students who are concerned with the status of women on campus. The group wants to make the campus aware of the problems, and oppurtunities, facing women today. This year they had speakers and days of awareness. The Take Back the Night March was an important event for Women's Emphasis.

Tiffany Jaquel Bowman

Whether as the energetic President of the Denison Lecture Series, a Disc Jockey on WDUB, Head Resident, or valued member of the admissions staff, you have distinguished yourself as a leader and doer. One of your teachers has said that you possess an extraordinary mixture of intelligence, industriousness, and maturity, both in your black studies major and in your co-curricular life. Certainly your industriousness is indicated by the remark of one of your fellow students who said that you are able to appear in three different places at one time! And your intellegence and maturity are indicated, among other things, by the fact that your peers chose you as one of three students to select our new president. Your career at Denison is descibed well by a faculty member: "Tiffany distinguishes herself as one who seizes every opportunity not only to grow and develop personally, but also as one who is determined to leave things in better shape than she found them." We are very greateful to you for many ways you have made things better at our College.

Jennifer Louise Irwin

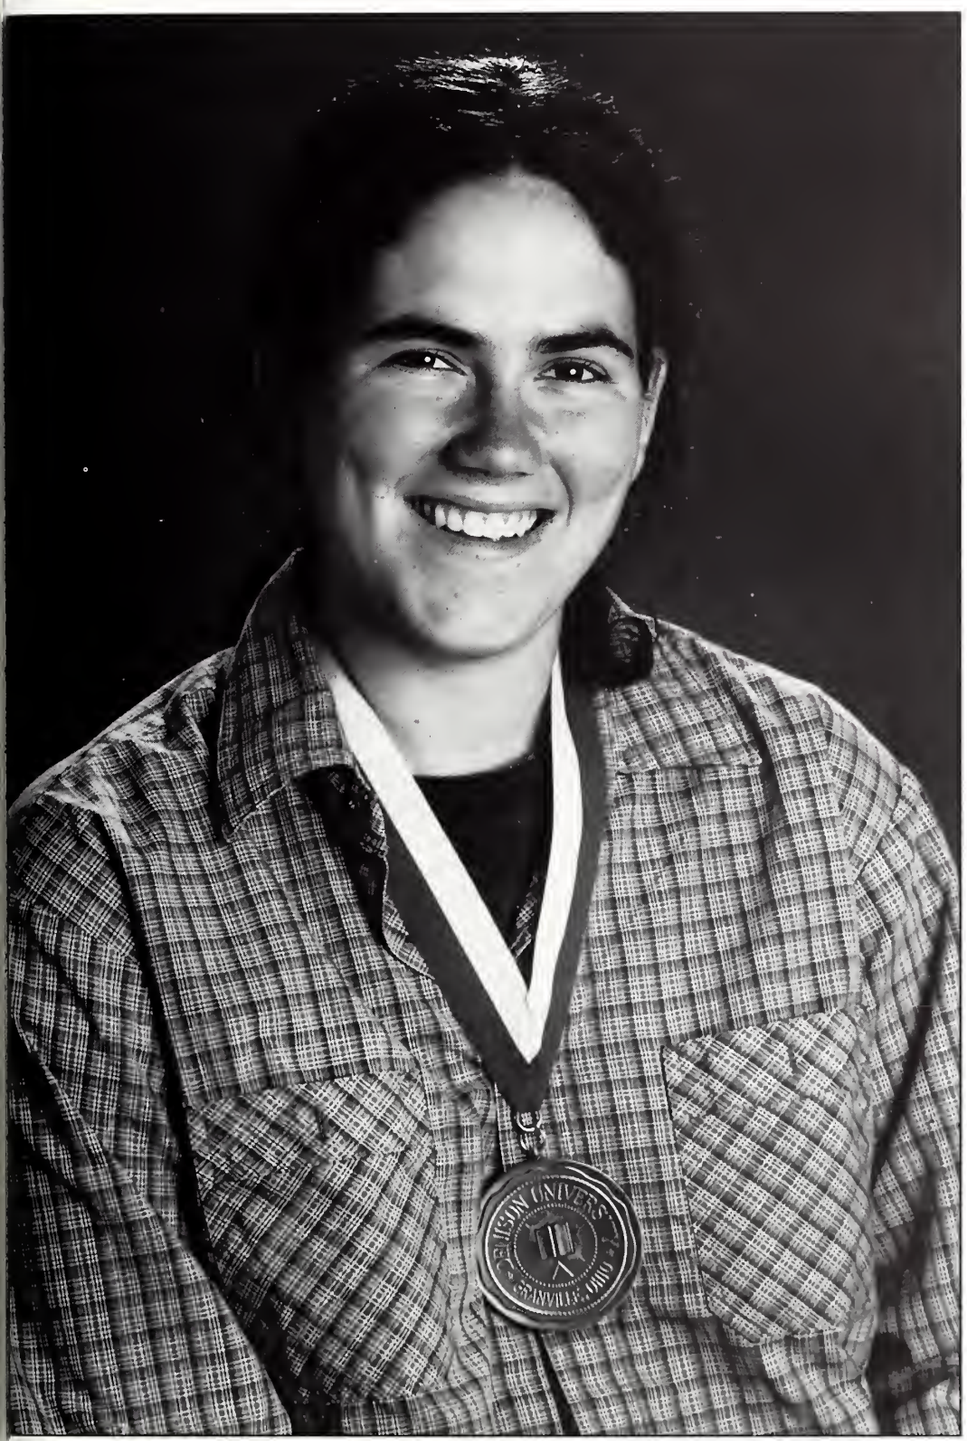

Yours has been an uncommonly diverse and wide-ranging engagement in the life of the College: history major, Young Scholar, Denison Community Association cabinet member and president, Concert Choir, Denison Singers, admissions tour guide and senior interviewer, June and August Orientations. Several of your teachers have commented on how much they enjoyed having you in their classes, due in part to your energetic participation and, as one faculty member has written, your interest in pushing your classmates and your instructor toward a deeper understanding of the material. That intellectual passion manifested itself in a fascinating Young Scholar project last summer that examined British women and their work during the Second World War. That project culminated in your senior year honors project, with the captivating title, "Mommy, What Did You Do During the War?" We applaud and congratulate you on your countless accomplishments during your four years at Denison.

Kevin Arthur Lee

Your career at Denison could be described with one word—trailblazing. You are the first student in Denison history to receive the prestigious Truman Scholarship. You are also the first male student at Denison to major in Women's Studies, along with your major in Religion—and you academic record in both pursuits has been stellar. At the same time you have managed to loom larger than life on the co-curricular front as Student Staff Coordinator for June Orientation, President of Omicron Delta Kappa, Tour Guide, Head Resident, Judicial Council, Denison Lecture Series, and Chapel Advisory Board. But many people will remember you for your passion for social justice in the areas of racism, poverty, and sexual orientation issues. You put that passion to work through participation in a wide array of organizations, including Habitat for Humanity, the Licking County Aids Task Force, and the Black Student Union. You have left a big mark on Denison University, and we expect you will leave the same kind of mark wherever you go.

Katherine Elizabeth Mast

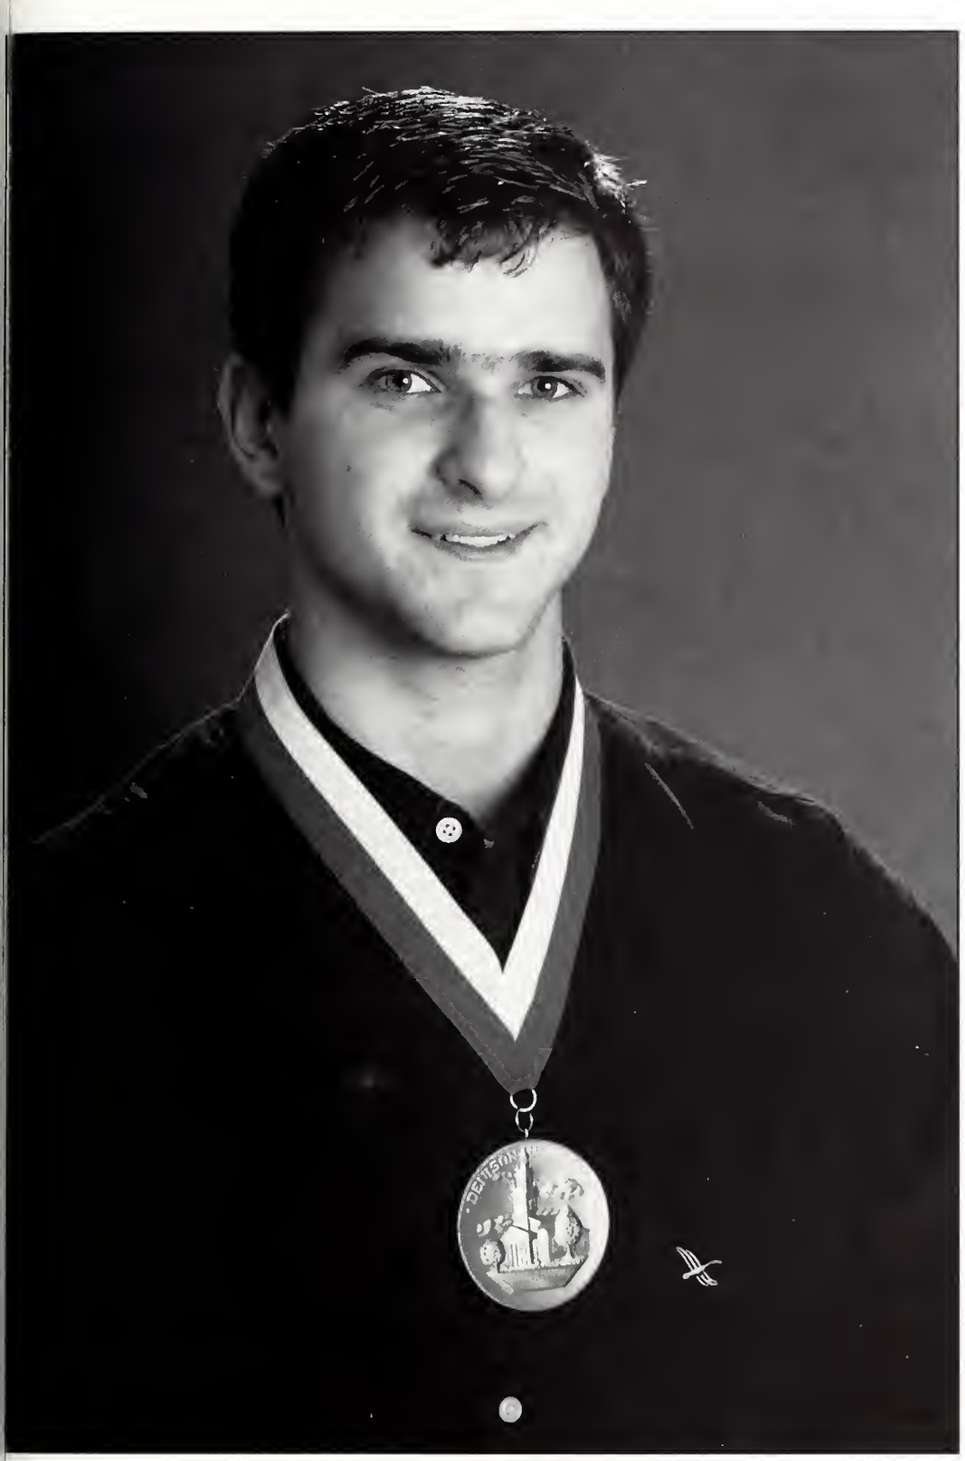

In what may seem like an unlikely comparison, here is what one of your instructors has written: "Some may view 1999 as the year Michael Jordan retired from professional basketball. Many of us here at Denison will mark the year by Katie Mast's graduation." As a double major in chemistry and psychology, you have excelled in the classroom. Particularly noteworthy is your dedication to connecting the Homestead experience to the classroom and to its original academic mission. You have been the key student leader in the recent rejuventation of the Homestead. Beyond that, you have sacrificed nearly all of your vacation time volunteering for service organizations such as Habitat for Humanity and Open Door, and you have taken a leading role in initiating a lead abatement program in Licking County. Given this remardable record of dedication to human causes, it is no surprise that, upon graduation, you plan to ride your bike across the country on behalf of JustAct. In both your bike ride and your career after Denison, we wish you the best, and may the wind be at your back.

Christina Lavine Millender

In looking over the list of your credentials, one wonders how in the world you did it all in four years. Your academic record is outstanding, as evidenced in the remarks of one faculty member who says, "I've not encountered anyone so talented and passionate about acheiveing academic excellence." You have more than lived up to the promise of the many academic scholarships that you have recieved at Denison, and to your double major in political science and economics. In addition, you have been energetically engaged in the life of the College as resident advisor, tour guide, DCGA senator, vice president of the Dension Lecture Series—to name just a few. You have left a legacy of outstanding leadership in the Black Student Union, most recently in the role of Chief Minister, You engineered an extraordinarily successful 30th Anniversary of the Black Student Union, held this past February in Columbus. Your leadership was also manifested in your particiapation last May in The Washington Center Women as Leaders Seminar, where you received an almost perfect score of 99%. In recognition of your extraordinary contributions to this community, your College takes great pride in seeing you honored with a president's medal.

Michael Harwick Plowgian

Your time at Dension has been especially marked by its academic brilliance, as is witnessed by your perfect 4.0 grade point average. It simply doesn't get any better than that! You may hold the record for the Denison student who brought the most AP credits to his college education. One teacher calls you one of the best he has had in 40 years of teaching. Your academic prowess is reflected in a number of ways. You have excelled in a demading curriculum as a Philosophy, Politics, and Economics major; you were Denison's nominnee for a Rhodes Scholarship and became a state finalist; and your outstanding performance as a Woodyard Summer Scholar led to your presentation on the Holocaust at a Faculty Luncheon. At the same time you have been active as a Hilltopper, DCGA Finace Chair, Admissions presenter, and editor of Denison's philosophy journal, Episteme. Your Denison career quite fittingly has culminated with your acceptance at Harvard Law School, where we know you will perform with the same distinction that has become the hallmark of your time at Denison.

Anna Elizabeth Tuttle

People at Denison will remember you for your uncommonly original and productive research agenda, for your record-smashing swimming careeer, and for your plain hard work in a wide variety of pursuits. Your faculty advisor has said that "Anna has taken on so much responsiblility during her Denison career that one might wonder if she is sane!" In your research as an Environmental Studies and Communication double major, you transported the classroom to the small community of Marion, Ohio, where you researched some mysterious patterns of cancer in the River Valley Schools. This resulted in an article about your efforts in a February, 1999, issue of the Columbus Dispatch. As for your swimming accomplishments, you have not been one to respect other peoples' records. You are a 21-time All-American. You hold or share five varsity records. You have eleven performances ranking in the top 20 in small-college history. You swam a 100-yard butterfly split that was the fastest ever in small-college history. You are winner of 12 conference titles and 1996 NCAC Swimmer of the Year. These accomplishments, combined with your stellar academic record, define you as one who has given new meaning to the phrase "scholar-athlete."

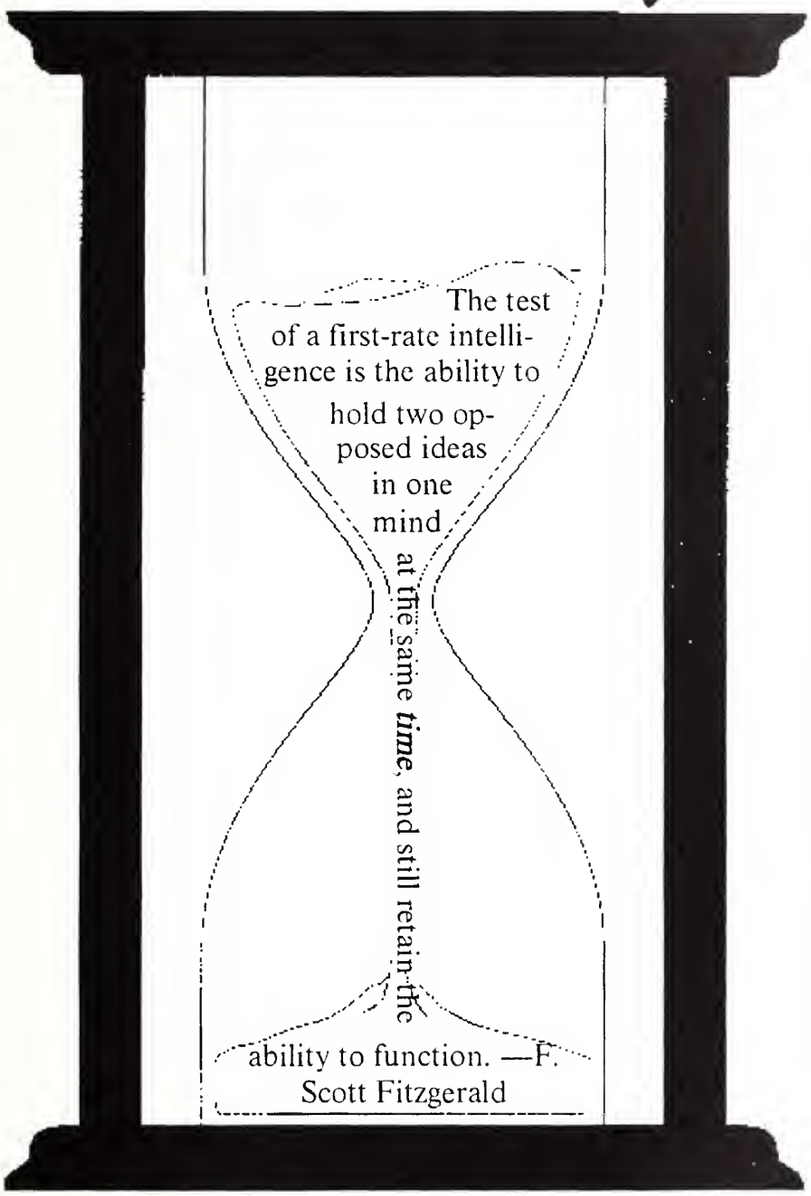

David Allan Ziegler

As one who has creatively chosen to pusue an Individually Designed Major, you have completed a highly-sophisticated research project in neuroscience. At the same time, you have been a key contributor to Denison's institutional research on the use of drugs and alcohol. Your work on the CORE survey was so pivotal that you presented at a General Faculty Meeting—a truly daunting prospect, indeed! Although you have been carrying out a dedicated research agenda since your sophomore year, you hve been very busy in other roles: four years as a Denison Singer, president of Outlook, Fellow in the department of psychology, Summer Science Institute, Board of Academic Integrity, Judiciary Committee, Founding Editor of Centered Margins, and Head Resident. To date, you have received acceptances and interview invitations at some of the most prestigious neuroscience graduate programs in the country, including the University of California, Emory, and Cornell. We applaud and celebrate your truly distinguished acheivements during your time at our College.

Denison University's 19th President, Dr. Dale T. Knobel

For Denison's 19th President, Dr. Dale T. Knobel, it is comforting to be back on the campus where he spent his freshman year of college. With so many changes occurring in the world, he believes the school has retained many of its best characteristics. He also sees many changes that have made Denison a better place.

Knobel's memories of his time here as a student include many recollections of the campus building boom of 1967-68. Throughout the school year the campus watched as Talbot Hall was demolished to make room for the new Knapp Hall. Knobel made his home in what was regarded as the new, high-quality, state-of-the-art residence hall knowm as "New Men's Dorm." When that first class lived there, it had not been formally named Shorney Hall.

As a soccer player, Knobel was let out of practice late many evenings and had to rush to Huffman for dinner. In fact, he remembers hiking over to eat most meals at Huffman, since the Curtis Dining Hall was not completed until that spring. He recalls, "on a cold, dark February night that could seem like a long walk."

Having the luxury of choosing which dining hall to have his meals, Knobel is glad to have returned to Denison. He is especially excited about being with the students; "seeing the young men and women catch fire and get excited about the learning they can share." From his educational experiences at a variety of institutions and exposure to different types of education, Knobel believes he is well-prepared to be President here. His first job has been to learn about the college and to find its strengths. Then he hopes to lead the college community to build on those strengths. With its numerous opportunities for service learning, out of classroom experiences, curricular and extracurricular events, and methods of trying out what has been learned in the classroom, Denison is a step ahead of many other national liberal arts colleges.

Knobel is also pleased with the rich array of activities offered to the students. With such a variety in cultural, educational, and recreational opportunities, he believes that when a student says, "there is nothing to do," he or she means that there is nothing that interests them at the moment, but at another time there will be.

The "high touch" quality of education that students receive at Denison also impresses Knobel. The eagerness of the students, faculty, and staff to interact and learn from each other often adds to the college experience. For Knobel, the faculty and personalization of the campus are what he remembers most about his time at Denison. Despite his broad academic background, the professors he encountered while here remain some of the best he has had. It is exciting to now be working as the colleague of several who taught him 31 years ago.

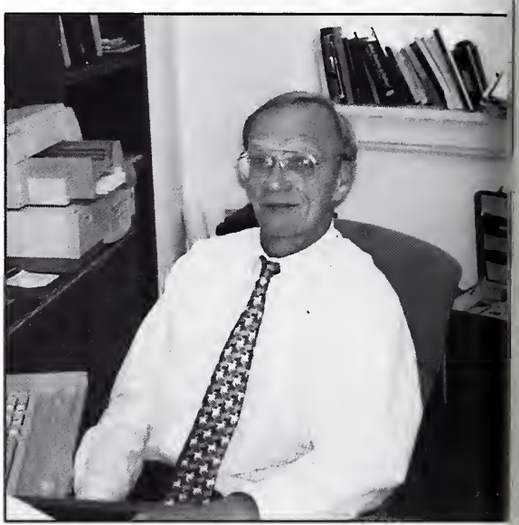

Students at Denison have a rich educational experience available to them. Knobel's hope for each student is a fond memory and genuine appreciation for the professors and student peers who teach and learn from one another in this community.

Dear John:

Our prayer for you is that the Lord fills you with His presence and enables you to reach higher than you think is possible or imaginable—and for you to recognize and use the opportunities that come your way—opportunities to help others as well as yourself. Look forward to changes in life without fear—know that God will lead you safely through every path. "Be strong in the Lord and in His mighty power." We are very proud of you and always remember how much we love you.

Love, Mom and Dad

"In the great orchestra we call life, you are an instrument and a song, and you owe it to God to play them both sublimely. But there is a canyon of difference between doing your best to glorify God and doing whatever it takes to glorify yourself. The quest for excellence is a mark of maturity. The quest for power is childish." Max Lucado, The Applause of Heaven. John, we are thrilled with all you have accomplished and with what you've made of your many gifts. We can't wait to see the things you have yet to do and create. We love you.

You did it!

As that famous philosopher advised you when you went off to college, "Oh, the places you will go—."

Overcoming burdens of which few are aware and triumphing over challenges where others would have failed —the places you have traveled—along your journey have strengthened and enhanced the character of the person we are proud to call our daughter and big sister.

You did it. And, "Oh, the places you will go—."

Congratulations and Love,

...I have learned to be content whatever the circumstances. I know what it is to be in need, and I know what it is to have plenty. I have learned the secret of being content in any and every situation, whether well fed or hungry, whether living in plenty or in want. I can do everything through Him who gives me strength.

You often ask,
"Where did the years go?"
at moments such as this.
And then you take some quiet time
to dream and reminisce,
to think about the lessons learned,
the love you gave and got,
to ponder challenges you faced and insights that they brought.
You recollect how, all in all, you rose to every test—
And, suddenly, you realize,
you did your very best.
So, now you're onto the Great Balancing Act,
You future looks bright...that's just plain fact.
"And will you succeed?
Yes! You will, indeed!

The 1999 Adytum yearbook of Denison University in Granville, Ohio, volume CVI, was printed by Taylor Publishing Company, Dallas, TX, and produced with the Taylor PageSetter desktop publishing program utilizing Adobe PageMaker 6.5 for Macintosh and graphics imported using Macromedia Freehand Version 5.5. Ron Fenander and Alan Swank were the Taylor Representatives at various times throughout the year and Janey Garrison was the Account Executive.

The 1999 Adytum contained 208 pages plus a four page tip-in printed on 80# Enamel Gloss trimmed to 9x12 inches, excluding Taylor's YearZine. I am not sure what the cover will be, but I am sure it will be a wonderful surprise. Eight-hundred copies were printed.

A JVC model RC-440 stereo with a broken tape deck and poor reception capabilities played in the office throughout the vast majority of the production of this book. The staff is not sure why.

The majority of this volume comprises submissions from the Denison community, and all opinions in the form of submissions, while approved by the Editor, are not necessarily those of the Editor or of Denison University. Any offense taken is unintentional.

May, 1999

Dear Reader:

It is my distinct pleasure to present to you the one-hundred-sixth edition of the Adytum, Denison University's annual yearbook. The final pages have been put together, the desk has been cleared and the office has been cleaned and prepared for next year's edition. It will be an edition whose arrival I will eagerly anticipate but in whose production I will not share a part, for when I sign this letter I will leave the position of Editor-in-Chief.

The last two years as Editor of the yearbook have been simultaneously exciting and frustrating as well as every emotion between those extremes. Along the way I have had the opportunity to meet and work with many wonderful people, only some of whom I can mention due to space constraints. To Cookie Sunkle, one of the best yearbook advisors with whom I have worked (I think there is a form for you to sign somewhere...), I thank you for letting me "vent" whenever the opportunity arose and I look forward to working with you on some non-yearbook tasks. To the Residential Life staff, especially Kim Branham, thank you for the many lists. To everyone else in Doane with whom I had the pleasure of working, thank you for making my life as easy as possible. To those loyal Adytum staff members who did not quit in the last weeks of school and who actually did their assigned jobs, I thank you to no end: your dedication to the Adytum is reflected in the quality of your pages. To all those people who were kind enough to lend the yearbook pictures over the last two years, you too helped to save me countless times and I thank you immensely. Finally, to everyone else: you know who you are, and I thank you for making the yearbook a success. To the editors of next year's book—Nick, Maggie and Courtney—I wish you the best of luck with the gargantuan and thankless task of putting together the yearbook. Even though it may not always seem like it, it is nevertheless a worthwhile endeavor.

The theme of this year's book is time. We chose the hourglass as the perfect representation of this theme: Every student here at Denison has one, filled with four years' worth of sand. During the summer after our senior year of high school, we looked at the hourglass before anyone had turned it over to start it. We marveled at the immense amount of sand at the bottom and the potential that the sand contained. And then, when we first stepped into our residence hall to move in on that hot August day, someone turned the hourglass over and the grains began to fall from the top back to the bottom. How slowly they moved for a little while! It was almost as if they fell one by one and we could have counted them for that first year. The second year was not much different from the first, but the sand appeared to be moving slightly faster, picking up speed.... At the end of the second year we looked at the hourglass and saw that it was half full—or half empty—and we wondered how all that time had elapsed already. During the third year the sand appeared to be moving even faster and its momentum started to snowball. And then the last year hit us, and the sand looked as if it were flying down the hourglass. We tried to slow it down, or even make it stop completely, to try to savor for as long as possible the little time we had left, but to no avail; it continued its furious pace. As the last few grains slipped away we said goodbye to friends and professors and the college on the hill—perhaps for a short time, perhaps forever—and during Commencement we watched as that very last grain of sand teetered for a moment in the top of the hour glass and then fell through to the bottom, ending our undergraduate careers forever. And this time we marveled at the same immense amount of sand at the bottom, just as we had done four years earlier, and all those fond memories that the sand contained. Fond memories that are hopefully also contained in this book. Fond memories that time cannot take.

Sincerely,

Edward S. Knotek, II
Editor-in-Chief

P.S. Don't forget to turn your hourglass upside down to start it up again. There's a lot of potential left inside.

Alma Mater

To Denison

U.E. Field, 1903

To Denison we raise our song,
Fair college on the hill,
The name that sets our souls on fire,
And makes our senses thrill.
To Denison, my Denison,
In praise our voices swell,
The scene of happy college days,
The Home we love so well.

Oh morning glow, which gilds the east,
Oh sun which shines at noon,
Oh stars which bloom at eventide,
Oh radiant glowing moon,
Look from the pathless, azure dome,
Shed blessings from above,
On college halls and college walls,
The Denison we love.

And when the shadows softly fall,
O'er hills and valleys dear,
Across the college campus rings,
The melody so clear;
The circling hills throw back again,
The glad inspiring song,
And in our hearts to Denison,
Our praises we prolong.

When from the fold we far shall stray,
With souls no longer young,
We'll ne'er forget our college days,
These happy scenes among;
And when our steps have feeble grown,
Our journey almost done,
E'en then with fleeting breath we'll praise,
Our dear old Denison.
